Kirk Hardy

Alcohol & Drugs – NZDDA

Managing Director and co-founder of NZDDA
Kirk has been involved in the implementation and development of drug and alcohol testing policies throughout NZ’s workplaces covering a wide and varied selection of industry types from small companies to large corporate clients. Kirk is also a former Detective of Auckland’s Drug Squad was involved in a number of operations involving in the investigation of national and international drug dealing syndicates and New Zealand’s organised crime.

Pat Kirk

Investigating the causes and not the symptoms!

Pat Kirk’s previous experience as the National health and safety manager for a large multinational, combined with his role as an independent investigator, has meant that he has been involved in many investigations in a wide range of New Zealand industries. Pat’s approach is simple, “focus on the real causes and don’t get side tracked by the symptoms”. Pat aims to highlight some of the common failings and traps that investigators can fall into as well as techniques to help avoid them.

Alcohol & Drugs Manager's workshop NZDDA

Management /Supervisor Training

NZDDA has developed an exciting and dynamic management/supervisor training package called "How to Manage Drug and Alcohol Risks in the Workplace" At the end of this 4 hour training course the manager/supervisor will be armed with the practical skills and knowledge to confidently deal with issues that arise within the workplace around drug and alcohol use. (Limited seats, must be pre booked. Restricted to Managers /Supervisors & H&S professionals)

Pat Kirk

Incident Investigation 101 – Nailing the basics!

Following on from this morning's presentation Pat will detail the approach you need to adopt when undertaking incident investigations if you want to dig down and identify what really caused the incident. The goal of a good investigation is not only to identify the causes but to also implement effective initiatives which prevent reoccurrence. Unless you do the former, you cannot do the latter, simple as that! The approach and techniques are simple but effective, and no matter what the size of your organisation it will significantly benefit from adopting such an approach in terms of reduced injury, property damage, and financial costs as well as improved operational efficiencies. (Limited seats, must be pre booked)
